PROJECT IN FOCUS: MORGENSTADT GLOBAL SMART CITY INITIATIVE-GLOBAL APPROACH

The Morgenstadt Global Smart City Initiative has been launched under the International Climate Protection Initiative (IKI) of the German Federal Ministry for the Environment, Nature Conservation and Nuclear Safety (BMU). It aims to set up a Smart City Innovation Lab to identify and implement sustainable cross-sectoral solutions in the sectors of housing and built environment, energy, and water and sanitation. The focus of the Morgenstadt Initiative is on applied research in cities of the future The project is progressing in three cities - Kochi (India), Saltillo (Mexico) and Piura (Peru) and is co-coordinated by the University of Stuttgart in cooperation with Fraunhofer Institute. NIUA is the implementation partner for this project and supports in data collection, processing and overall project management in Kochi. The project is a three-year collaboration developed with a focus on climate change mitigation and adaptation. For more information on the project, visit here.
